

Short Bios - Julie E. Czerneda

For your convenience, I've provided my bio in the following versions. I will do my best to update whenever there's a significant change. If you need something immediately and none of these will do, please email me.

Prepared September 2013

50 words - book focus

Julie E. Czerneda is a best-selling, award-winning author/editor, with fourteen novels in print. Her latest is the fantasy A Turn of Light (DAW) and up next will be its sequel, A Play of Shadow (DAW 2014). Julie returns to her science fiction roots with Reunification. For more, visit www.czerneda.com.

50 words - SF classroom focus

Former biologist and educator turned author, Julie E. Czerneda is internationally known for her work in developing scientific literacy using science fiction. A sought-after presenter for educators and students, most recently Julie was guest speaker at McMaster University's SF: The Interdisciplinary Genre conference Visit www.czerneda.com

@ 150 words - both

Since 1997, Julie E. Czerneda has turned her love and knowledge of biology into science fiction novels and short stories that have received international acclaim, multiple awards, and best-selling status. A popular speaker on scientific literacy and SF, in 2009 Julie was Guest of Honour for the national conventions of New Zealand and Australia, as well as Master of Ceremonies for Anticipation, the Montreal Worldcon. She's busy writing short stories as well as her next novel, having released her first really big fantasy, A Turn of Light, (from DAW Books 2013). Most recently, Julie was guest speaker at McMaster University's conference: SF The Interdisciplinary Genre. No matter how busy, she'll be out canoeing too. Once the ice has melted. For more about Julie's work, visit www.czerneda.com or visit her on Facebook, Twitter, or Goodreads.